Hall High School Students Receive Jewish Community Foundation Scholarships

West Hartford, CT – Four deserving Hall High School seniors were chosen to receive scholarships from the Jewish Community Foundation based on academic achievement, community service, extracurricular activities and financial need. Each received a scholarship to a four-year, accredited college of his or her choice.

Sarah Robertson, Justin Callis, Meredith Rothstein and Andrea Rosenfield were honored at an awards ceremony on May 11th at Hall High School and presented with a certificate from the Jewish Community Foundation. They will attend Boston University, Northwestern University, Lesley College and Muhlenberg College, respectively. “These students rose to the top of a field of outstanding candidates,” said Lauri Miller, chair of the Foundation’s Scholarship Committee. “We are thrilled to support the development of our young people in pursuit of higher education.”

With assets that exceed $85 million, the Jewish Community Foundation is a leader in charitable giving in Greater Hartford. For 35 years, the Foundation has partnered with individuals, families and community organizations to help them achieve their charitable goals and secure a vibrant Jewish future. This year, the Foundation has distributed $3 million in over 600 grants to more than 160 different charities.
